Special To The News
NEWTON, Kans., Feb. 18.—Had visits from two of my bosses just before leaving California. Mr. Lorimer, who was out drumming up subscriptions for his Saturday Evening Post, and his charming wife, and two fine grown sons come out to our shack slumming. We settled the Republicans' nominations. The next day Mr. Adolph Ochs owner of the New York Times, and his gracious wife and sister-in-law spent the day with us. We took up the hardships of the Democrats. He thinks of course Al will be nominated and my friend Jessie Jones of Texas for Vice President aided by Mrs. Rogers.

I copy hinted for a raise from both gentlemen but even socially they are always the business man, so it looks like I just fed two hungry editors for nothing.

Once a sap always a sap.

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Routed from his bed today by two men claiming to be detectives with a warrant for his arrest Ferdinand Steindel, 38, well known Chicago pianist and concert director, leaped to his death from the seventh floor window in the Algonquin hotel.

Hanging half out of the window and screaming for help his wife Louise clung to him in a vain effort to hold him back. She was on the floor in a dead faint when the two "detectives" broke through the door.

No record of any warrant for Steindel's arrest could be found at police headquarters. Authorities believe the "detectives" were impostors.

Steindel was widely known. He was a nephew of Bruno Steindel, cellist.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS
OF ALL KINDS OCCUR

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—After 17 February days of spring mildness, Chicago today tumbled to work in inches of snow and in the teeth of a northwest gale that sent the mercury well below freezing.

The blizzard, the second worst of the winter, struck Chicago yesterday noon. Snow which began falling at that time continued throughout the night. Thousands of laborers worked all night in an effort to keep the lanes of traffic open.

Autos Snowed Under.

Hundreds of automobiles were snowed under at the curbs and could not be moved. Elevated trains and surface cars had difficulty in handling the crowds of early morning workers. Many suburban street cars became stalled in drifts and had to be dug out.

Traffic accidents of all kinds resulted from the storm. One man was killed and several injured in a collision in the switching yards of the Belt line, the blinding snow obscured the vision of the engineers. Several pedestrians were knocked down in the streets by automobiles while the blizzard raged at its height.

Two street cars and a taxicab were partially demolished in a three-way collision at a street intersection. The chauffeur and three passengers on one of the street cars were injured. Snow-clogged tracks derailed another street car, throwing 75 passengers into a panic.

General Storm.

The blizzard and heavy snowfall was general over the middle west. Train and air-mail service in some sections were completely tied up. Many of the trans-continental trains in the west were reported far behind schedule.

The air mail planes enroute from the Pacific coast to Chicago were reported forced down at Rock Springs, Wyo. Flying was particularly hazardous owing to the high winds and low visibility.

Cold weather will follow in the wake of the blizzard, according to the local forecast bureau. The mercury is scheduled to drop to 8 or 10 degrees above zero in Chicago by tonight.

Two Revolvers Found

Two revolvers were found on a dresser at the foot of the bed, upon which Ireland was lying. One revolver had not been used recently.

The body was found by the victim's wife, Mrs. Esther Wood Ireland, upon her return from a shopping tour. She told detectives her husband might have killed himself, but could not advance any reason for his act except that fact that he had been despondent because of heart trouble during the past year.

Police were puzzled because Ireland left no farewell note. They expressed the opinion that if he had contemplated suicide he would have written such a note to his wife or to his child.

CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 18.—State and county police today redoubled their efforts to capture the phantom sniper after he struck new terror with five attacks yesterday, and climaxed his most active day by frightening 42 pupils of the Dudley public school.

Yesterday was a bound-and-hare game between the sniper and the police. His attacks started in the upper end of the county, near Moorestown, and extended down the White Horse pike as far as Magnolia, where two houses were hit. Flying squads of state policemen on motorcycles patrolled the highways, but failed to locate the small black sedan the sniper used in his attacks.

Weather Bureau Says Lower

Snow To Remain Several

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18.—With western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia buried under a blanket of snow traffic moved slowly through the district today.

The weather bureau said there were prospects of more snow and that probable lower temperatures would cause it to remain on the ground for several days.

Snow began falling here late yesterday and at the hour when traffic was heaviest it had developed into a blinding snowstorm, causing a number of minor automobile accidents.

Three persons were injured in accidents blamed on snow freezing on windshields, but none was hurt seriously. In Washington county an army flyer narrowly averted a serious accident when, unable to find his way through the raging snowstorm, he landed safely in a field after seriously considering a parachute leap from his plane.

At 9 a. m. the snowfall here measured 27 inches. In other parts of western Pennsylvania it was deeper. The weather bureau stated. The damp snow clung to telephone wires and trees, transforming the landscape into a beautiful study in white against the gray skies.

There was a minimum of delay to vehicular traffic, but the weight of the snow caused many telephone and telegraph wires to snap.

The weather bureau stated the SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—Death clutched at 5,000 homeward bound ferry passengers here and today is believed to have dragged six of them beneath the waves of San Francisco Bay.

Out of a maze of conflicting reports this was the conviction of federal and state investigators as they opened a searching investigation today into the tragedy that nearly overwhelmed the Key System Ferry Peralta last night.

Jammed with chatting thousands bound for the supper tables of a thousand East Bay homes the Peralta suddenly plunged deep-deep into the tide-wrecked depths off Goat Island a mile from her Oakland slip.

A crashing wave of salty foam engulfed the forward end of the ship. Thirty men and women it is believed were engulfed and hundreds more, soaked by the surging swish of waters, screamed and fought to escape the doom that threatened.

But the Peralta righted, sloshed off the tons of water that swept half way through the lower deck space, and staggered to a stop as rescuers fumbled in clumsy haste to launch lifeboats.

Exactly what happened no one seems to know.

Baffled by a shroud of mystery thrown over the whole affair investigators throughout the night were able to gain little more than the jumbled fear-distorted tales of survivors.

FINE OF $1,000 IS

Other Prisoners Are Given
Sentences At Lawrence
County Court
Session

Frank Hockenberry, who entered a plea of guilty to transporting liquor, was sentenced by Judge R. L. Hildebrand in Lawrence county court this forenoon to pay a fine of $1,000 and costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny county workhouse for a period of two years and eleven months.

There was another charge against Hockenberry of operating a motor vehicle with license plates other than his own, on which he was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs.

Hockenberry has been before the court on liquor charges on four other occasions. He was sentenced in 1912, in 1915 and twice in 1924.

Made His Escape

The present charge grew out of his arrest last year near the Bruce Johnston farm in Wilmington township by County Detective Fleming, Constable Leslie and State Policeman Munsey. He had 108 one half pint bottles full of liquor when arrested, and was on his way to a picnic being held at Conneaut Lake.

When he was brought back to this city he stated that he could not open the back part of his car as the key was at his room. He went with State Policeman Munsey to get the key, following him he suddenly shot into a hallway, slammed the door in Munsey's face and escaped down a back stairway.

He fled to Ohio where he remained for some time. Recently he had an accident on the New Castle-Youngstown road in which his automobile was wrecked. He started to walk back to New Castle and as a result was arrested. He has since been in jail.

District Attorney J. Elder Bryan, stated to the court that Hockenberry won't even stay out of the county when he has a chance. The officers, he said, had knowledge of five or six

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—A fresh campaign of bomb terrorism was feared today following attacks on the home of a municipal court judge and on a garage which is said to be the hangout of alcohol peddlers and gangsters.

A building housing the undertaking establishment of Sbarbaro and Co. over which lives Municipal Judge John A. Sbarbaro, a partner in the firm, was damaged to the extent of $10,000 by a powerful dynamite bomb set off shortly before midnight.

Judge Sbarbaro and his wife, occupying the second floor apartment, were thrown from their beds by the concussion. They escaped serious injury.

Garage Also Wrecked

The bombed garage, located 17 blocks from the Sbarbaro place, was badly damaged by a similar charge of dynamite. Surrounding property was also severely damaged.

Judge Sbarbaro was unable to advance any motive for the attack on his place, other than possible enmity

A little sun, a little rain, a touch of a fleeting sun, a cloud or two graying under the blue and the moment of sunshine is done. A little snow and a gust of wind, a flitter or two of sleet, and the cars are skidding on a very course as they travel the hilly street. Its February, the gusty month, when the sunshine follows the snows, but February is built like that, and it seems that anything goes. A Spring-like smile and a Wintry frown, and a hodgepodge of every season, and one kind follows another soon, without any seeming reason. On February is short I feel, but its changes are never done, a sunny, stormy, sort of a month, the weather is thirty-one.

Street Dangers To Be Reported

Police Ordered To Make Report Of Bad Sidewalks And Paving

As a matter of safety first and also for the purpose of protecting the city as well as individual property owners from possible damage suits the officers of the city police force have been instructed by Chief of Police C. C. Horner to inspect sidewalks, streets and other places on their beats, which might prove hazardous and dangerous to pedestrians, motorists or others.

If they find a place where ice forms where a person on foot might trip and fall, or holes in the street that might cause a motor accident, they are required to make a written report. Legal notice will then be served on individual property owners where they are at fault to have the necessary repairs made while the city department responsible where the city is at fault will also be notified.

Police Deport Man Entering Homes Here

On receipt of a call last night from the Clarendon street district to the effect that there was a man entering homes there and begging, Officers Dukes and Thompson were detailed and found that two men of the district had chased and captured the man.

The man was brought to the police station, where he gave the name of Jim Dail and claimed his home was in Lanesville.

He had a letter, which had evidence of being phony, which purported to be from a doctor in Ambridge and stating that he was subject to rheumatism.

It appeared that he had been looking in at windows of the district in which he was captured and if he saw no men, of walking right in and asking for aid. If there were men in the homes, he knocked. He had $21.99 in his possession and this morning he was required to purchase a ticket for Lanesville and on the train for that place with instructions that he was not wanted here.

HOME OF CHICAGO JUDGE IS BOMBED

He had incurred through his work on the bench.

"I have been handling some criminals roughly in my court," he said. "Perhaps that had something to do with it. I have been making a conscientious effort to stamp out gambling in my section and have been giving both proprietors and customers heavy fines."

It was just three weeks ago that similar attacks were made on the homes of two other men high in the administration ranks of Mayor William Hale Thompson. They were City Comptroller Charles C. Fitzmorris and Dr. William H. Reid.

Authorities held the opinion that the attack on Judge Sbarbaro's home was another expression against the Thompson administration.

And thinking also of the man who invented the phrase "easy walking distance."

Pa. News discovered this morning why the chain was erected along the sidewalk on the curve at Cathedral square, Lincoln and Highland avenues. Several persons would have taken a spill if it had not been for the chains. The sidewalk was slippery this morning.

Coming down the hilly streets of New Castle in an auto this morning was a difficult task for some auto drivers. In a number of instances drivers played safety first and used the street cars, while the machine remained in the garage.

It seems that the evening that the News street and avenue puzzle appeared, seven of the members spread the paper and then, painfully and with much stretching of ligaments, assumed a prone position on the floor where, until long after midnight, they puzzled over the answers. And they were worth to find that, although they had lived in New Castle all of their lives, they could not get the correct answers to quite a few of the questions.

although it nearly broke my heart. And now—after 20 years—she is going to be hanged!"

Clasping her hands again and again, Mrs. Michael Grecco sits in the living room of her home here, and voices her regrets. She is the mother of Doris Palmer McDonald, who is sentenced to be hanged with her husband George, March 23, at Valley Field, near Montreal, Canada, for the murder of a taxicab driver.

Mrs. Grecco, who divorced Doris' father, has only just heard of her "baby's" fate.

"I shall do all I can here, and then I must go to her," the mother insists. "I want her to realize she has a mother's love, and that I didn't give her away years ago because I didn't want her. Oh, if she would only realize that!"

Mrs. Grecco says that after she had borne three children, two girls and a boy, her husband left her, and because she was so poor she couldn't buy them food or shoes, she allowed Dr. Frances Palmer, wealthy physician at Mount Vernon, N. Y., to adopt them.

In the intervening time Doris was reared and educated in luxury, according to Margaret Gould, governess for the girl, who is here trying to help the mother get assistance.

Miss Gould, a white-haired, kindly woman, says she cannot believe Doris ever helped to rob or kill.

"She was too sweet and kind, as I knew her in the intimate years of her growing teens," the governess comforts the mother. "Some unkind fate crowded her into this."

thermometer would drop steadily until it reached the 10 degree mark some time tonight. Snow flurries will continue throughout the day.

The thermometer in Pittsburgh fell from 31 degrees at midnight to 27 degrees at 10 o'clock.

The weather bureau's prediction that snow would fall most of the day was based on reports from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois where the fall was reported to have lasted throughout the night.

The cold wave belt consists of a narrow ridge of high pressure extending from Canada to northern Texas, and moving eastward from the plain states, the weather bureau said, while Chicago reported 10 degrees this morning, Des Moines, Iowa, reported 2 and Duluth stated it was 12 below zero here.

Milder weather will follow the cold snap quickly, however, according to the weather bureau. Temperatures should begin to rise about Sunday afternoon, and continue through Monday.

persons known to have been in the water are accounted for is today's presumption based that six are missing, perhaps drowned.

Out of the mass of home coming commuters that nightly crowd the 5:15 trip of the Key System line no accurate check could be made of the missing until supper table gaps testified mutely of the disaster. It was at first feared that 30 homes would feel the blow.

Out of the list of 30 names accumulated through a night of seemingly endless checking International News Service today had found six unaccounted for.

Independent checks and the announcement of Key System officials supported this report.

Albert Maloney, said to be an Italian, and also said to have become crazed over religion, was taken into custody last night by Officer Llewellyn at the B. & O. station in the seventh ward, where he was preaching.

This makes the third or fourth time that he has been brought into police headquarters for doing the same thing in railroad stations of the city.

As it is believed that he is mentally unbalanced, he was sent to the county jail for five days. It is expected that he will be subjected to examination by a commission.

Plans Old-Fashioned Stumping Tour

Senator J. A. Reed, Missouri
(International Illustrated News)

SENATOR "JIM" doesn't believe in sitting still and letting someone boost him for President.

No, sir! He's right out in the front line stumping his way around the country in the old Reed bandwagon, "stumping" through Texas first and do up the southwest on his way to the coast and north-west.

In the words of his friends, "his campaign will be under his hat." He will meet the people, deliver his message, declare himself on the issues and leave the decision to the Democrats of the country.

Body Of Eddie Foy Taken To His Home At New Rochelle

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Stage folk say the greatest comedian is at heart the greatest tragedian—if so, Broadway should weep freely today when Eddie Foy comes home.

Eddie, who reigned on the American stage for years as one of the greatest of them all, returns in death to be laid at rest not so far from the lights of the great white way—at New Rochelle.

Accompanied by Mrs. Foy and six of "The seven little Foyes," the actor's body was scheduled to arrive at Pennsylvania station, and crossing over Broadway, will be transferred through the Grand Central to a New Rochelle train.

It will lie among his old neighbors at the Foyes' residence. Funeral mass for the actor, who died Thursday in Kansas City, may not be sung before Tuesday.

JUDGE HILDEBRAND PASSES SENTENCE ON HOCKENBERRY

trips he had made here with booze before he was finally picked up.

Judge Chambers occupied the bench with Judge Hildebrand this morning and the two judges consulted over the case before sentence was passed.

Peculiar Case

Seven years ago, Morris Zober was a merchant in Bessemer. Paigraz Cottnik came into his store to buy a suit of clothes. After he had selected the suit, Cottnik produced a wallet from which he took eleven $50 bills. One of the bills was handed to Zober who gave Cottnik his change and departed.

Cottnik stayed that night at the home of a friend. When he went to bed he removed only his shoes and stockings. The next morning when he got up he missed his wallet containing ten $50 bills and the change that had been given him by Zober. He said that the wallet had been strapped around his leg.

Zober was arrested on a charge of having stolen the money from Cottnik. He was convicted in 1920 before Judge Prather of Crawford county, who was holding court here. An application was made for a new trial, which was refused. For some reason the case has slumbered ever since.

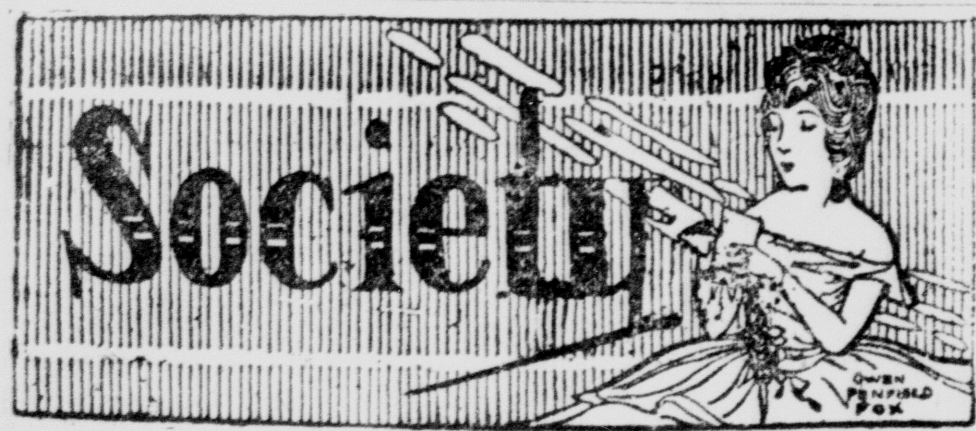

When Zober came before Judges Hildebrand and Chambers this morning, Attorney H. A. Wilkinson appeared in his behalf. He stated that it had been shown at the trial that a girl clerk in Zober's store had testified before the justice of the peace that Zober took the money. It was also stated that the girl had afterwards admitted that she had been offered $100 if she would so testify against Zober.

As the trial in court she refused to confirm her statement, but Justice Chaney of Bessemer, before whom the preliminary hearing had been held, told what the girl had testified to at the hearing. There was no other evidence against Zober. He strenuously denied that he had taken the money. He had always borne a good reputation.

Attorney Mark Rabonovitz, who represented the prosecutor, stated that he had not been present at the trial, but had only been asked to get the case disposed of as it has been hanging fire so long. Meanwhile Zober has been out on bond.

Judge Hildebrand said that it is remarkable that a case should have been held up so long with no effort to get it finally disposed of. He thought

This is the most expensive act any theatre manager has ever attempted to bring to the city of New Castle.

Elks' Troop 5 met at the Elks club Thursday evening with Scoutmaster Ralph F. Davis in charge. Two committees, Walter De Arment and J. Garfield were in attendance, along with three visitors.

The Silver Fox patrol is now leading in the point contest with the Flying Eagle patrol running a close second.

The basketball game has won honor for the troop by defeating the West Pittsburgh team. Preparations were made for the Scout Circus which will be held in March.

The Capitol Theatre regrets its inability to seat everyone who wanted to see the Discovery Night contest on Friday night, and also regrets that it was impossible to have every one of the amateurs who wished to try out, do so, owing to the large number of entrants.

However, the theatre management will hold another such Discovery Night on Tuesday evening, February 21, at which time those who did not get to go on will be given the opportunity to do so. Just leave your names in the Capitol Box Office. This invitation is also extended to every one else who wishes to try his act out.

It was originally intended to hold the Discovery Night on Friday evening but this will be impossible because of the unusual attraction which will play on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. The "Vanities And Fashions of 1928" will play the Capitol, featuring six Atlantic City Bathing Beauties among whom are Miss Ohio, Miss Washington, D. C., and Miss Cleveland. Twelve people in the flashiest act seen here this season.

HUMANITY IN INDUSTRY

ALONG the lines mentioned frequently in these columns of The News, a tribute is paid to the United States Steel Corporation for its development of "Humanity in Industry" by the Ohio State Journal of Columbus, Ohio, the particular occasion being the recent announcement of the payment of a large sum in pensions to workers. In Lawrence county the sum paid by the Carnegie company to pensioned faithful workers was around $100,000. The tribute which is deservedly paid to the corporation by the Journal is as follows:

"During the last calendar year the number of names on the pension roll of the United States Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries increased 1175, the total annual cost increased $500,000 and reached for the year the sum of $3,003,209. The average pension was $5145 per month.

"One may read that statement merely as a bit of information from the largest industrial corporation in the country or one may read it as a refreshing illustration of the newer and better way of handling the human problem in industry. Not so many years have passed since the newer and better way was introduced. Prior to that time the custom was to keep an employe so long as daily tasks were well done, then, when years had slowed down the trained hands, give him the blue ticket, the crude and cruel notice that his services were no longer required.

"That was the rule in all lines of employment. There were no sick benefits unless the men provided them by mutual contributions, no workmen's compensation for dependents of those killed or to provide necessary bread and butter for those injured, no first aid organizations, no hospital maintained near by, no medical aid, the worker drew his wages and took his chances. If he saved money he had a home in old age if he did not save, he could go to the poorhouse, as the county homes were then known.

"The better custom has become general. Few employers today seek to evade their moral responsibility, most are under the compensation plans in vogue, the Steel Corporation provides its own compensation, its own hospitals, its own medical aid, its own pensions, for those who give their productive years in the mills. The world has been made better since the better custom has become general, the world approves of that custom, of the humanity it pictures, of the hardships it prevents, of the contentment in old age it insures. The development of humanity in industry has been one of the notable changes the world has seen during recent years."

TRAFFIC PROBLEM

THE MOST difficult problem with which state and local governments must deal in this day is that of traffic. The principal factors of this problem are the automobile and motor truck, and the problem becomes more difficult of solution as the uses for gasoline vehicles are multiplied.

To say that the traffic problem is a purely urban one is a mistake. State highway departments, as well as city governments, must deal with parking, speeding, congestion, traffic control and road construction. The lion's share of county budgets is also claimed by the highway department of most county administrations.

There is constant proof that this matter is increasing in seriousness for the cities and states. There will be 27,000,000 automobiles in the United States in another half decade, according to authoritative estimates. That means more and wider thoroughfares and improved methods of traffic control both in and out of the cities.

Past experience should have taught both public and government that it is dangerous and costly to wait until traffic conditions become intolerable and then rush blindly to remedy them.

The number of automobiles and trucks on the roads surely justifies exhaustive study of probable traffic requirements and the taking of necessary steps to anticipate those future needs. Let those administrations which criticize their predecessors for lack of foresight make it impossible for their successors to find the same fault with them.

INTELLECTUAL ADVANCE

IT IS the prediction of a Kansas educator that the country will need "seven Harvards and seven Yales" and a compulsory school age of 18 to 21 years at the end of another half century if the present demand for education is maintained for that length of time.

The time of the so-called self-made man is past. Trained and cultured men are being sought by big business. One of the self-made men of yesterday is author of the statement that the railroad business can not progress without the assistance of the college and university trained man.

It is the judgment of leading educators that this nation is on the threshold of an intellectual movement unparalleled even by the cultural eras of Egypt, Athens and Rome. The country's educational facilities are inadequate, and, unless greatly augmented, will seriously hinder this intellectual advance.

This appears to be a natural development common to all civilized countries. Learning has always followed the acquisition of great wealth. Man's turning from the quest of material wealth to the quest of learning is a natural sequence. Mental development in its several manifestations—in literature, philosophy, science, music and art—is always to be found after periods of intensive production of material wealth. The principle has been demonstrated by the Egyptians, the Athenians and the Romans.

The history of these three ancient cultures is a warning to American civilization that to halt in this intellectual advance will prove fatal. It must strive ever onward and upward or slip backward. There can be no "decline and fall" of the American empire if this era of cultural advance is not followed by a period of intellectual apathy and retardation, resulting in licentiousness and prodigality.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:39. Sun rises tomorrow 6:48.

A woman clerk at Meadville is reported to have found a snake two and a half feet long in a bunch of bananas from which she was cutting some of the fruit. We always heard the snake that tempted Eve was in an apple tree. Must be a mistake somewhere.

Farrell is planning an airplane landing field near that city. This community had better get busy in this matter or it may lose its opportunity along these lines.

Ohio Republicans are said to be all bet up and that there is every evidence of a split. Our advice to them is to avoid this little mistake or they'll find the Democrats getting all the best of them, like they do in other communities they have heard about.

A Spanish army officer has just invented a new machine gun said to be capable of firing six hundred shots a minute. What chance would a fellow have in a fight if the other fellow had one of those things.

Horace, Virginia raccoon, sent to the White House to be the playmate of Rebecca, the pet raccoon of President Coolidge, has, it is reported, elected to run at large rather than stay cooped up in the fancy pen of Rebecca. Looks like Horace, like the President, prefers freedom to captivity with honor. Maybe that's the reason President Coolidge did not "choose to run" for another term.

Drake University co-eds have declared that $250 a month is needed by the man who would wed. Their male friends in the same institution have signified the belief that $150 a month is enough. Education certainly does increase one's importance. We know lots of families that are living on less and some of them are even riding in automobiles.

John E. Andrus, Yonkers, N. Y., millionaire, 87 years young, says, to make money "look ahead and be patient." It's all right for him, he's lived more than his allotted three score and ten and he's got his millions. Most of us haven't time to look ahead and our patience has been exhausted.

Federico Verdes, alleged defaulter of $11,000 from the public works department of Havana, Cuba, has been captured, it is reported. His captors will receive $500 reward. Had he been dead when taken, the reward would have been $1,000. Looks as if they figured it cheaper to kill him than try him.

Pittsburgh reports that counterfeit dimes are being passed in that district. Looks as if business conditions are slightly off when a counterfeiter would take time to trade bogus dimes for real money.

Apparently our neighbors in Sharon are not only preaching economy, but are practicing it. We see where the council of that city has rejected a proposal to increase the police force by three patrolmen, on the ground that the expense of government there is already too high.

We see a veteran attorney of Texas will seek the office of state representative on the platform to have a law passed that classifies football as a prize-fight, and punishing those participating in it. "It's brutal and dangerous," he says. He'd have about as easy a time enforcing a law like that as others find in enforcing some other laws we've heard about.

Millis, Mass., had a chief charged with liquor conspiracy. He was acquitted. The town has shown its appreciation by presenting him with $1,000 for his humiliation and expense and put him back to work. That's the kind of justice and appreciation that indicates the heart of America is still right.

Somebody has suggested that possibly Lindbergh should give up flying. Indications are that the suggestion started in some fool person's brain who couldn't fly if they wanted to. Flying is the colonel's business and he takes no unnecessary chances. To stop him would have been just the same as telling the late Judge Gary that he didn't know anything about the steel business and he ought to quit.

Millionaires have increased six hundred per cent in this country in the last four years, we are told. Pretty good showing for Uncle Sam's children. Don't look as if all the so-called chances of advancement are past in this country yet.

Americanism? Admiring a man who got there by hard work; expecting him to stop work and address luncheon clubs.

Lately, I have realized that the woman who is the breadwinner of the family, or even the young woman who must take care of herself, must do twice as much as a man in the same position if she would be successful.

If a man invites a friend home to dinner, he calls up his wife—that's all there is to it. He finds a well-appointed table, a well-prepared dinner and a complacent and charming woman to sit at the head of his table and help him entertain his friends.

If a business woman asks a friend to dinner, she must consult with her cook before she leaves, she must think of all the little details of flowers and candles and perhaps an extra salad or a fancier cake than usual. These things must be done before she goes to her office.

In the same manner, no one in a household thinks of asking the boys who are working downtown to help wash the dinner dishes, to make their own beds before they leave, to keep their clothes well brushed and in repair. (As I dictate this, my secretary says "They are not even expected to clean up the bathroom after their morning tub.")

But every girl is supposed to have some household and personal duty, as well as the duties of her work in a downtown office or store or factory.

No matter how tired she is at night, no matter how her soul longs for a little recreation, she must stay at home and help mother with the dishes. On Sunday the men folk of the family always have a day of rest and recuperation, but the business girl must help an overworked mother get up a holiday dinner which usually cuts into the day to such an extent that all hope of anything but an hour or two of more or less solitary rest is lost.

Memo: Every girl who earns her living must be an adept at two businesses, because tradition and custom and convention says that whatever else a woman is, she must be a housekeeper and a homemaker, and know all the arts of the domestic life.

America, it is indicated, prefers youth in industry, professions and in all walks of life, rather than age and experience. The opposite is true of Europe. Experience is the close friend of age and who ever heard of a successful man, enterprise, etc., which could not be traced to experience gained in years of effort?

Taxpayers who criticize the amount of money Uncle Sam spends for his soldiers' target practice each year should remember all the land the Indians lost because they stuck to the bow and arrow too long.

It might help some if a citizen could be taxed only by his peers.

Rest Now, or Never.

Happy Conference.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—If you mean to retire with a little rest and leisure before the end of IT. Don't wait.

Death does not wait, especially if you work beyond the natural time. Eddie Foy, popular actor, 73 years old, was on his way to California "to rest, and end the balance of my life." He thought he would work "just a little longer."

He is dead now, in Kansas City, where he worked literally until he died. Heart disease struck him just after he had left the stage.

An athlete, breaker of records, with big lungs and chest expansion, was amazed when the life insurance doctor told him "you are a bad risk. We can't take you."

Next to no exercise, the dangerous thing is over-exercise. You can develop muscles almost without limit. But you have only one heart, and it will stand only so much.

It is pleasant, for to admire and for to see, for to travel this world so wide. It is a good thing also to remember your birthplace and your own people, convinced that both are the best in the world.

W. H. Genoble has a good permanent job with the railroad at Barstow, here in beautiful California, and he likes it. "But," says he, as he takes your baggage checks, "the best state in the Union is South Carolina. I have 132 acres, 12 miles from Spartansburg in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains and that is where I am going soon to start a dairy farm. Would you have a water pressure tank underground, or on a platform, up in the air?" South Carolina has got more water power than any other state. If the people knew about it as I do, it would be so crowded you couldn't move around."

Such citizens, enthusiasm and loyalty build this nation.

Christianity came to establish peace on earth and good will to men. But the establishment is slow. Roman Catholics and "orthodox" members of the Greek Church, meeting in the Holy Nativity Chapel in Jerusalem, engage in violent fist fights. Great Britain with the Palestine mandate is criticized for not policing the place more thoroughly.

The British say they do not want "to complicate their mandate." No wonder. Insert in your prayers a few words of thanks that Uncle Sam was not saddled with any war mandate in the war excitement. He lent ten billion dollars which he won't get back, and got prohibition, which is about all he can manage.

Some preachers tell President Coolidge it is "not Christlike" to demand a big Navy and preparation for war. The President can reply that other nations and show any particular "Christ-like" tendencies in the big war, also that when that war came, many clergymen were enthusiastic about the duty to buy bonds and kill Germans.

If another war came and found us unprepared—as it could—now, since we have no flying machine fleet—the clergy would join with 120,000,000 others in asking President Coolidge, "why didn't you get ready?"

The conference at Havana is about over. And as Mr. Rogers says, Uncle Sam is to be congratulated on going into a conference without losing anything, no battleships scrapped to oblige nations that couldn't afford to compete, no silly promise not to fortify Guam, or do anything without the consent of Britain, France or Japan.

The Argentine Republic wanted to rewrite the United States tariff, to compete with American farmers. But the Argentine didn't have Balfours as representative, so this country said no. We can handle little republics. Britain is too much for us.

Last year this country spent $600,000,000 for radio products, machines and parts. 1928 will see the first radio presidential campaign. The world changes swiftly, adapting itself readily to new methods.

Radio employs 300,000 people and broadcasting reaches 90,000,000.

THE COMIC STRIP

A recent article on "The Compensatory Function of the Sunday 'Funny Paper,'" by Harvey C. Lehman and Paul A. Witte, is at hand.

It gives a very ingenious explanation for the popularity of the comic strip. It gives as a trait of character in almost every one the desire to "escape."

"In the world of 'actuality'" it continues, the "child is obliged to conform to certain conventions, to treat other persons with a reasonable amount of decorum, to abide by the consequences of his acts when he defies natural law or human authority. In the 'funnies' he will defy every law and he will do so with impunity."

"Thus the child looks at the Sunday 'funnies' is enabled to identify himself with the most intrepid adventurer or the most resolute law-defying citizen or the capture of such a criminal. On the other hand, he may identify himself with the who wins out over apparently insuperable odds."

All of us are aware of constant limitations in our ordinary life. We are unable to thwart these restrictions, so we seek numerous and varied forms of gratification of our impulses.

Certainly the comic strip does not excel in showing actual life conditions nor in its artistic quality. It only suggests human characteristics in exaggerated form, but they are naïvely and crudely presented and so direct and unmistakable that even the most obtuse cannot fail to recognize them.

The pamphlet says that in the Sunday funny section the child often takes many risks which in real life he would not think of taking.

"In some cases he succeeds by resort to magic. At other times he is pictured as falling squarely upon the face or being severely burned with fire or scalding water. He falls at a great distance or he is closely pursued by dangerous wild animals. He knows no decorum. He puts his cigar ashes into an upturned silk hat, or into the goldfish bowl. He rests his feet on his neighbor's lap."

"He endures no suppression. He has complete freedom of self-expression."

So this is at least an ingenious explanation of the popularity of the comic strip, as the value of any entertainment, theatrical or otherwise, is its escape value.

LET THEM TALK

Every once in a while a naval officer or an army officer gets into trouble through the ancient expedient of talking too much. Just what is too much talk for an officer in the defensive arms of our government? Well, that depends upon what the talk is about and how disagreeable the opinions of the talker may be to those in supreme command.

I have never heard of an army or navy man who got ahead by talking in a way that was distasteful to the highest of the higher-ups. But it does happen once in a pink sun that an officer, highly placed, may talk freely in a way that arouses the ire of some of his superiors. If those opposed to the talker are not very well entrenched, there is always a remote chance that the talking officer may prove his thesis and get himself promoted at the expense of those above him who cannot talk so well as he.

There is a good deal of sentiment among civilians against talking officers who conduct propaganda for larger navies, bigger armies, more gas and bloodier wars. And there is a decidedly stiff opposition in official quarters against officers who tell the

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WOMAN CAN AND WILL.

A combative Legislator now thinks that woman is too much in evidence in business affairs and would tax a married woman having a husband who earns enough for the family support at least twenty per cent of her earnings—so far has the idea of an income tax engrained upon the American people.

Seriously, every woman ought to have some way in which she can earn money. It should be looked upon as an insurance against want.

If a woman can make exceptional good pies, cakes, doughnuts, preserves or candies, she should attempt to find if there is a market for her wares. Then she should carefully figure out the cost of materials, fuel and all that, and find what price it would be necessary to ask in order to make any return for the time invested. Arrangements could be made with some of the stores in the community to handle products of this kind, or the sales might be made direct by advising people in the neighborhood either by telephone or letter.

The same is true of fancy goods, children's dresses, aprons and lamp shades. Almost any woman can earn a comfortable sum by taking orders for any of these things.

Take stock of your talents today. If you have no talent or trade by which you could earn money, pick out some line in which you think you might succeed and perfect yourself.

Even if it is not necessary to earn money for your own needs, such a pursuit will furnish a pleasing hobby to which time may be devoted that would otherwise be wasted.

KNOWS HIS BUSINESS

Joseph M. Schenck, great motion picture producer, has just taken out another million dollars in life insurance. This makes six millions for Mr. Schenck. Next to Rodman Wanamaker he carries more insurance than any man in the world. Mr. Schenck could never be called by his friends an impractical dreamer. He is a shrewd and able business man. In insurance he is creating a huge estate that he can depend on. The possibilities of the varied forms of insurance are appealing more and more to able business men.

A MAIN FACT

Jack Farwick, paragrapher of the Toledo Blade, says: "Man has to reach middle age or beyond before he begins to realize that his troubles are of no particular interest to other people, even if they are polite enough to listen."

Expressions of sympathy are very often insincere. And they are not very good for the people who receive them.

FAILURE

There is no more pathetic figure than the man who has plenty of real ability, is a hard and earnest worker—but who lacks a personality that wins and holds friends and that inspires loyalty. The quality of leadership, which is a matter of personality more than ability, is the major quality of man. The whole hope of the world is in leadership. Men who are put in places of importance because of their sincerity, information and ability, are particularly sad failures.

It is a study of never-ending fascination. There is no clear, sharp line to show where the normal leaves off and the abnormal begins. By this time everybody should have read Derser's great book: "Why We Behave Like Human Beings."

Science makes progress in the discovery of how we do things. But a great darkness is yet to be explored. Why are we here? Where are we going? Who said so?

Anniversary Week Closes

Banquet Event Concludes Celebration At Grace M. E. Church

PROGRAM PROVIDES MUCH OF INTEREST

Concluding a most interesting week of anniversary, celebrating the 25th anniversary of the church's existence, an anniversary banquet and get-together was held in the Grace M. E. church on Friday evening, February 17.

At 6:45 the banquet was served in the dining room of the church by the women of the church. At the conclusion of the meal, the diners adjourned to the auditorium of the church where other guests were assembled and the program of the evening was presented.

John E. Reese acted in the capacity of toastmaster of the evening and after a congregational hymn, asked Rev. A. E. Yeager, a former pastor, to pronounce the invocation. A male quartet consisting of Roger E. Francis, David W. Rees, Charles G. Harris and Leonard W. Kisthart sang. This quartet also sang several other selections during the evening.

A reading followed by Mrs. C. P. Thompson which drew a lot of applause and a mixed quartet consisting of Miss Florence Thompson, Miss Dorothy Barnes, Roger E. Francis and Leonard W. Kisthart followed.

EXPECT CIVIL SERVICE BOARD MEN TO APPEAR

Board Is Summoned Before Council At Session Monday Morning

Members of the civil service commission for police are expected to be present when city council convenes formally at nine a. m. Monday as the result of council recently adopting a motion presented by Councilman C. H. Reeves requesting the members to tell solons about the recent examination of candidates for the police force.

According to allegations, men below the weight and height prescribed by the civil service board's rules were given a rating and certified as eligible to appointment to the police force.

The points involved are weight and height. According to the advertisement issued a call for candidates, they are supposed to weigh 150 pounds and stand five feet eight inches tall.

Approximately 10 persons failed to meet with these requirements and according to a minute of the board they were given a rating and were among those certified as eligible for appointment.

Should the reports and records prove that rules were not followed, it is possible that the examination will be declared illegal and a new examination held.

Increase Work At Local B. & O. Shops

Part Of Work Done At Connells-ville Before Fire Is Shifted Here

Since the destruction of the roundhouse at Connellsville, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, through necessity, has changed some of its methods of transporting freight, etc., between Cumberland, Md., and New Castle Junction.

The result has been, temporarily, at least, according to local authorities of the railroad, to increase activities at the New Castle Junction roundhouse.

The repair work, formerly done at Connellsville, is now being done at the local shops and Cumberland, each place doing an equal share of the work. This has necessitated the bringing of a number of additional machinists and other roundhouse and shop workmen to this place.

There is a likelihood, due to the fact that freights are run through now from Cumberland to New Castle, that this order of things in the shops here will continue permanently, although it is too soon to definitely determine that.

The Connellsville shops and roundhouse destroyed by fire will be replaced, but on a smaller scale, it is reported, which will mean that Cumberland and New Castle will have to take care of much of the business formerly done at Connellsville.

Father John's Medicine Builds Energy To Resist Colds

This is the season when it is most difficult for your system to throw off cold and grip germs, because it is common for people to be in a run-down condition at this time. Body energy is usually at low ebb, and people catch cold easily.

You can build strength to throw off colds by taking a pure food tonic such as FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE. For over 70 years it has been the standby in thousands of homes as the best remedy for coughs and colds. No alcohol or narcotics. Try it today.

The Storm Stilling Saviour Brass Tacks On The Sunday School Lesson

WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS, THAT EVEN THE WIND AND THE SEA OBEY HIM?

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

"There ariseth a great storm of wind, and the waves beat into the boat, insomuch that the boat was now filling, and he himself was in the stern, asleep on the cushion; and they awoke him, and say unto him, Master, carest thou not that we perish?" What a picture this is of the perfect humanity of Jesus! Thoroughly exhausted from the strenuous day of teaching, he sleeps the sleep of a little child, utterly oblivious to howling winds, drenching rains, sinking boat and terror-stricken seamen. What a picture of the peace of God that passeth understanding; the storm raging, the apostles raving, and Jesus in undisturbed peace, asleep! But he whom the howling winds can not awake is awakened by the cry of distress from his disciples, "and he awoke, and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm, and he said unto them, why are ye fearful? have ye not yet faith?"

Now a new terror grips the disciples. They had been terrified by the storm; now it is the "great calm" that terrifies them, and the strange divine power of him who is Master even of winds and waves; "and they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, who then is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?" He, whose humanity sought rest in sleep despite the storm, is now seen to have within himself the power and nature of deity.

From stilling the tempest in the howling sea the Master proceeds to Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, whose candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the United States senatorship from Texas assures another colorful campaign in a state whose elections are so often full of national interest, has become one of the best known women in Texas by reason of her active participation in various public movements. For the past two years she has been executive secretary of the National Democratic Woman's Club in Washington, D. C. She has long been a leader in the woman's movement in Texas, serving as president of the State Suffrage Association before suffrage was granted to women, and was first president of the League of Women Voters. In the senatorial election in July Mrs. Cunningham will have formidable opposition. Among others seeking the nomination are former Governor Oscar B. Colquitt, Congressman Thomas L. Blanton, Alvin Owsley, former national commander of the American Legion, and Senator Earle B. Mayfield.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—February 15 to 27 was expected to be the most stormy and disagreeable period of the month generally over the continent, a veraging above normal storm force and precipitation and below normal temperatures. Storm force of this period is expected to be most severe near 15 and 20, as storm waves cross continent during weeks centering on those dates; during both of these storm waves, low barometers are expected to travel well into southern states, causing moderate to heavy precipitation in eastern part of Great Central valleys and probably breaking the long dry period of entire southwest; altho precipitation of this period is expected to be greater in southwest than during any period of the past six months, it is not expected to be as great nor as well distributed as would be desired by those interested in agriculture of this section, where planting season is now at hand. Precipitation of northwest, east of Rockies, will decrease materially during the next six days, probably until Spring opens in that area. Precipitation of central and northern Pacific slope will remain above normal for the immediate future. As an average of the continent, Spring weather will arrive at about normal time to a few days later than normal; Summer temperatures will arrive ahead of their local normal dates in practically all sections.

Again I wish to caution agriculturists to be prepared to meet what will probably be the most favorable season to insect breeding of any season of past decade. The past three years have been more than favorable to these pests, still I expect 1928 to be even more favorable. This forecast is based upon expected early arrival of Summer temperatures, heavy infestation from 1927 season, above normal Spring moisture and about normal reception of stamens or growing force from over seas. The area of most favorable conditions for insect breeding will be between longitudes 87 and 87 and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. This area is farther east than was area in which similar conditions existed during 1927 season. General details of expected crop-weather conditions of March will appear in next weekly bulletin.

A recent Washington paper states that "Mount Weather is to be sold because it has been used more as a playhouse for government weather bureau officials than for a bureau of scientific research for which it was purchased and established." This does not look at all like twentieth century progress. It would be as reasonable to sell New York state because it has wet spots or to give the Panama canal to England because an airplane carrier scraped some of the walls as it passed thru. Does Mount Weather offer any possible future scientific aid?

School Gyms Not Large Enough For Crowds These Days

Nearly 2000 Spectators At New Castle-Butler Game Last Night

High school basketball is slowly making inroads on the popularity of football, as evidenced last night at Butler High on Friday night. It is estimated that close to 2,000 persons witnessed the 14 to 11 beating that the New Castle team suffered.

The Butler High gym floor will hold about 1,500 on normal conditions, but every available inch of space was consumed by an eager spectator last night, even to the steel rafters overhead. At least fifty youngsters without any visible effect clung to the steel beams and posts and viewed the game.

When Butler High played at New Castle several weeks ago the Senior High gym resembled a sardine can, and over 1,500 persons were present. In two games the Butler High and New Castle High teams played to close to 4,000 fans.

Many New Castle people who made the trip to Butler last night were unable to gain entrance to the Butler High floor. As one lady said, she had been at the Butler High School gym since 5:30 o'clock and the game didn't start till 8 o'clock. Several hundred fans were in the gym by 6 o'clock and those who arrived after 6:30 o'clock had to stand up.

"Bigger and better gym floors" seems to be the slogan now that basketball is becoming so popular. Not so many years ago the writer can remember when 300 or 400, at a basketball game was considered a large crowd.

THE REDBREAST BABIES

Peter was astonished at this last remark of Mrs. Robin.

"Only room for five eggs in your nest!" repeated he. "Then where do you and Mr. Robin stay?"

The birds chirped with laughter.

"Kip! Kip!" cried Mrs. Robin. "So many of you humans live together in one house that I suppose it does seem funny to hear that we birds build our nests for the babies. But you see it is only when they are tiny, helpless things that they need a nest. After that they roost in the branches of the trees—we Robins cannot stand being shut up in close quarters at all."

"You see it is this way. After I lay my eggs I know that they must be kept warm or they will never hatch, so I sit down in the nest—being very careful, you may be sure, that I do not step upon the fragile things—and over the eggs I spread my downy wings. I brood, and brood and husband brings me food. At last, just when it seems to me that I can not sit upon the eggs another moment, 'crack' goes the shell of one of the eggs and I know my babies are coming out into the world!"

"Then I call to Robin who has been staying close by me all the weary while and singing to me to cheer me up. He comes flying over and together we listen to the children breaking from the shell."

"Such funny cute little things as the babies are—all mouth and without even a pinfeather on their poor little bodies. Talk about being hungry! You just ought to see our children eat! It keeps their father and myself busy feeding them. Never are they satisfied."

Last season husband thought out a fine plan to fool the youngsters! After we had given them all the food that was good for them and still they cried for more, their dad would stretch himself to his full height, draw up his neck and stick his back down in the wide open mouth of first one hungry youngster after another. Although he wouldn't have a morsel in his beak and only pretended to feed them, the silly little nestlings didn't know the difference. They would then quiet down and go to sleep, thinking that they had had an extra tidbit."

Mr. Robin Redbreast here took up the tale.

"It is fun to watch the young things getting up courage to venture out into the big world when they are feathered warmly and almost as large as they ever will be. They want to go adventuring, for weeks before they are fit to leave the nest. They chirp nothing else. But when the time comes they rather hate to leave the safe home and fly out into strange places. Sometimes the nestlings will sit close together, with their heads hanging over the nest arguing among themselves which one of them shall try first."

"Of course, the bravest one launches his wings first, and the others, seeing that he comes to no harm and discovering how much fun he is having, soon follow."

"My wife and I have many a good laugh over their queer antics. The nestlings are so awkward when they first try their wings, you know. Then is the time when we keep our eyes open for cats. Cats are so sneaky they are liable to creep up and pounce upon one of our nestlings before we can give the alarm. Those first 'fly days' are anxious days for us."

Evangelistic campaign will open Sunday, February 19, in the Grace M. E. church, corner of Reynolds and Agnew streets of which Rev. J. L. Petrie is pastor and will continue each evening for two weeks beginning at 7:30, concluding on March 4.

Rev. Sherman H. Epler of Eau Claire, Pa., has been secured to preach each evening. Rev. Epler is a speaker of ability and the local congregation is very fortunate in being able to secure such an able evangelist.

It wasn't parsimony that eliminated "I-tine-endow" from the ceremony. It was a sense of humor.

No Progressive Ticket Likely

Not Believed Any Candidates Will Be Entered In Coming Presidential Race

HAVE HAD FILL OF THIRD PARTY

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News
WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The Progressives put a presidential ticket in the field in 1924. There's hardly a hint of one in connection with the coming campaign.

True Senator George W. Norris has the Progressive endorsement for the Republican nomination, but the Progressives know he won't get it. Yet scarcely anybody urges running him independently, like the late Senator Robert M. La Follette four years ago.

It isn't that Progressive sentiment has waned.

On the contrary the group is stronger in Congress—especially the Senate—than when La Follette, the elder, ran. From all signs, this ought to be a better Progressive year than that was. However, the Progressives appear to have had their fill of third party activities.

The fact is, La Follette probably wouldn't have been nominated in 1924 if it had been exclusively up to the Progressives to nominate him.

The committee for progressive political action—a clumsier name for it would have been hard to think of—originally was to have held, not a nominating convention, but a conference, after the Republican and Democratic selections had been made, to decide what to do about it. The intention was to choose, if possible, between the two major league presidential candidates, and to frame up a list of congressional nominees whom good Progressives could conscientiously vote for.

It was the general public a number of newspapers, and one or two political groups like the Socialists, rather than the Progressives, which insisted on regarding the affair as the birth of a new party.

These outsiders took it for granted that La Follette would be nominated. They announced that they were going to support him—he wasn't quite as advanced as the Socialists, for instance, but he'd do—they'd be on hand to root for him at the "convention" and he'd get their votes in November.

It amounted to a challenge to the Progressives to fish or cut bait. They loved the old Wisconsin war horse. They weren't going to admit that anybody had more faith in him than they had. So, somewhat against their better judgment, they simply were busted into accepting a program that wasn't at all theirs in the first place—and thus we had the La Follette and Wheeler ticket.

It was all right. The Progressives were well enough satisfied with the showing they made.

Still, they feel that it was mostly a wasted effort.

Their policy—not in an invidious sense of the expression—is to "bore from within."

It's worked pretty well.

They have the casting votes in the Senate.

Blaine, Brookhart, Frazier, La Follette, Norris and Nye (Republicans, so-called), Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Wheeler (Democrat)—thick-and-thin Progressives, all.

Borah, Howell and McMaster (Republicans) and the two Walshes (Democrats) class as almost as good. Capper, Couzens, Johnson and Norbeck (Republicans) and Ashurst, Dill and Neely (Democrats) are regarded as "right" in the main. And cutting—as yet a good deal of an unknown quantity—the Progressives have high hopes of him. There are also some

New Yorker
BY BURTON RASCOE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—One of the most frivolous fashions left among men who think well of themselves and dress with an eye to the sketches in magazines seems to be on the wane, even in effete New York where a male may wear spats and carry a stick and still not have the street urchans guffaw at him. I refer to the flossy custom of wearing a flower in the buttonhole. I must admit to a certain self-consciousness in the matter myself, but still I enjoy seeing large well fed fellows in derbies and overcoats, sporting a carnation or even a gardenia and looking if not like a bridegroom at least like some devil-of-a-lad hustling to a rendezvous. In the summer time when I have the garden as an excuse I have been known to run to an occasional cornflower or pansy in my lapel but I must confess to a certain diffidence at the idea of galloping around town adorned with anything giddier than these. My fellowmen probably have the same feeling and so the charming custom is on the wane.

With living places small and stuffy and with an adjoining population that sneers at movies and has no money for plays, Greenwich Village centers its amusement in its restaurants. Such places as the Archway serve dinner to perhaps a score of patrons each night. Then the tables are cleared and the customers spend the evening playing cards or chess or checkers. Or they just talk and drink coffee—which costs 25 cents a cup when you order nothing else. Such places don't make a lot of money but the owners are happy in the philanthropic work of providing a haven for Bohemia's psychopaths.

A dollar bill pasted on the outside of a shop window opposite Grand Central station the other day remained intact to the surprise of the proprietor. About 100,000 persons passed it during the course of the day some of them presumably hard up or hungry. But not a soul tried to make away with it. Who says this is a city of crooks.

Rev. E. W. Thomas Coming

There is a great expectation and great preparation in his country for the coming of the Rev. E. W. Thomas of Carmarthen, Wales, to this country. He will leave Wales the latter part of next month and will be engaged in Gospel work the first week in April in the Wyoming Valley where he will be until the third Sunday in May. On Sunday, May 27 he will be at the city of Johnstown and on Sunday, June 3, will be at Pittsburgh, then on June 10 and 11 he will fill the pulpit of the Emmanuel church in New Castle. Fifteen years ago Rev. Thomas visited our city and preached at the First Congregational church which a great many will remember. Arrangements are being made to have the great preacher preach three times on Sunday and again on Monday evening.

The Power of Credit

A real power an individual can develop is that which comes from the confidence and respect placed in him by his community.

The circuit of such power is too often broken by negligence and carelessness in MEETING OBLIGATIONS PROMPTLY. The record made by such negligence and carelessness follows the individual or group of individuals wherever they go.

You can't afford to neglect the power of credit. It may mean so much to you in time of need, and now is the time to prepare. If for no other reason you should keep your credit good as a matter of self protection.

EXPECT KEGARISE AIRPORT WILL BE READY APRIL 1

Application for the charter of Kegarise Air Transport, Inc., which concern will maintain a commercial airport on the Wilmington road, three and three quarter miles from the city, is to be made, it is announced. Capitalization and incorporation of this airport proposition will become known, with the granting of the charter. It is planned to have the airport in operation April 1.

It can be said, however, that the proposition is backed and financed by Ralph R. Kegarise, World War veteran and experienced aviator, and a group of local business men, who are interested in aviation and believe in its possibilities as a business proposition.

According to Mr. Kegarise, the Kegarise Air Transport, Inc. will maintain one of the finest airports in this section of the country and its charter will permit of the transporting of express, mail and passengers. Also the privilege of manufacturing and selling airplanes, as well as acting as agent for other concerns for the sale of airplanes and parts.

While the possible manufacture of airplanes here is as yet more or less visionary, Mr. Kegarise states that it is not at all improbable, that should the concern prove the success that it is hoped for, that planes for the use of the company as well as others, will be manufactured here.

Location of the airport is on what is known as the Jackson farm on the Wilmington improved highway, opposite the entrance to the New Castle Field club and but three and three-quarter miles from the city. It has been inspected by representatives of the Department of Commerce, with which it is now registered as an airport, and these representatives declare that it is one of the very best in this section of the country.

The field to be used at present is forty acres in extent, probably the largest in this section of the country. It is a natural level piece of ground, covered with a twenty years growth of sod, which makes it ideal for use for the landing of airplanes.

A crew of men is now engaged in cleaning off such trees, stones and making such other few changes, as are necessary to make it ready for use as an airport.

The company has things so arranged that it will be possible to enlarge it to ninety acres in extent, making it possible to accommodate scores of planes at one time. Another excellent feature of the field is that it is located on one of the highest elevations in the county.

Planes manufactured by the Alexander Aircraft company of Denver, for commercial purposes and the very latest improved type, will be used by the Kegarise Air Transport, Inc.

One plane has been purchased and Mr. Kegarise will leave early in March for Denver for the purpose of getting it, he says. It is to be ready to be flown back here by Mr. Kegarise on March 15. The plane is known as the Alexander Eaglerock and is of a new and improved patented construction. In addition to this one plane, a second of the same type has been ordered to be delivered a short time later.

Mr. Kegarise, a veteran flyer of the American and British Flying corps during the World War, in January passed the examination at Pittsburgh as pilot of airplanes transporting passengers, etc. and is licensed to operate commercial planes.

The field will at present be equipped with hangers, gas tanks and everything necessary for the servicing of visiting planes as well as those of the company. It is planned to eventually equip the field for night as well as day flying. This is not all planned at once, but will be done as the business permits and requires and also along lines in keeping with the rapid development of aviation.

One of the advantages of this field is the fact that it is surrounded on all four sides by public roads, making it easy of access. The Kegarise Air Transport, Inc. plans to transport passengers and express to any or all parts of the United States.

Owing to the fact that the field is registered with the Department of Commerce, it will be shown in detail in the National Air Way Bulletin issued by that department, assuring the publicity that will make it known throughout the airplane world.

It is planned that the field may be used as a municipal port for the landing and starting of planes without cost to the city, members of the concern state.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

IDEAS ON LINDY
18 Round Street,
New Castle, Pa.

Editor
The News
Dear Sir:
My idea of Lindbergh is simply this: I really admire, or I might say adore, Charles A. Lindbergh, first, for his being a real gentleman, then for putting his mind to the coming business of the near future, the business of aviation.

I think Lindbergh should stop flying at once, and the government should begin to think seriously about this aviation question. I think the government should prepare for war in time of peace. Lindbergh should at once be employed by our government to personally manage the building of planes for use in time of war. He should be the chief instructor in an aviation school financed by our government.

The school, industry and flying field should be at one and the same place so that he could have personal charge at all times.

Of course, he wants to be in the air, but I would suggest that if he cannot be hired to stop flying, force him to stop, as he is very badly needed to help this nation to be the leader of the world in the aviation business. He is the only one who can do the job quickly and properly. We are making a very great mistake by not taking advantage of this opportunity to lead the world in aviation while we have such a great man to do the job for us.

Just a few more trips for Lindy and it will all be over, I am sorry to say.

Very truly,
W. W. Walls.

LET HIM ALONE
Editor New Castle News,
Dear Sir:
Why not allow "Lindy" to attend to his own affairs?
He seems far more capable than 98 per cent of Americans who desire to do it for him.

What a marvelous thing it would be, if we could only learn to "mind" a little more of our own.

And
He ("Lindy") is not in Politics.
Sincerely,
L. JONES.

SEND TWO CRUISERS TO SAMOA TROUBLE

(International News Service)
WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Feb. 18.—The cruisers Dunedin and Diomedes have been sent to Samoa to aid in quelling continued unrest among the native chiefs. It was officially announced today.

The warships were sent at the request of the British administrator Richardson who declared his position was serious and that it was impossible to enforce law and order. The police, Richardson said, were powerless.

The government statement said the cruisers were sent as a precautionary measure.

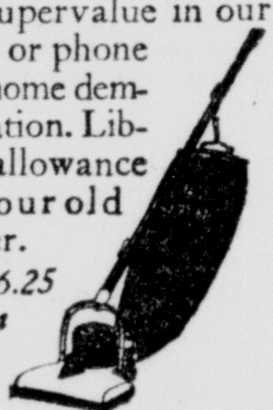

It was also reported that the native unrest was spreading to American Samoa.

Of course the Mississippi valley should pay part of the cost of flood control. Didn't the West build its irrigation dams?

Will Survey New Mercer-Sharon Road

New Route May Cost Mercer County $50,000 In Damages Suits

MERCER, Pa., Feb. 18.—The county commissioners with the state highway engineer for this district will make a survey of the proposed new route for the Mercer-Sharon road Saturday, February 18.

The road cutting off at the brow of the hill into Hells Hollow traverses the land of ten farm owners before it again unites with the present route four miles distant.

It is estimated that the damage incurred by the new route will cost Mercer County $50,000 to pay. The county it is understood will be responsible for the damage suits brought by the farmers whose land will be taken.

It is expected of the Commissioners to see these farmers at once and arrange for the new route. The charge is made to eliminate the bad hill and curves in the hollow and the circuitous route followed for several miles.

Final Decision In Van Sweringen Case Held Up For While

By HARRY WARD.
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The Van Sweringen billion dollar railroad unification plan creating a 7,553 mile system linking up tide-water Virginia with New York and the mid-western gateway of Chicago will not be decided by the Interstate Commerce Commission until congress has acted on the Parker-Fess railroad consolidation bill, it was learned authoritatively on Friday.

The plan evolved by the two Cleveland real estate and railroad magnates provides in effect that the Chesapeake and Ohio controlled by them, shall acquire stock control of the Erie and Pere Marquette.

The commission, it is understood, has reached the conclusion that the Van Sweringen plan is sound and in the public interest, but it is not inclined to pass on a question of such magnitude until congress has finally acted on a general consolidation plan.

The Parker bill is now being considered by the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce section by section with an assistant attorney general present to pass upon the legal phases of the measure. Representative Parker of New York, chairman of the committee, said he was hopeful the committee would be able to report the bill out within the next two weeks. Republican leaders, he said, have promised to give the bill an early place on the calendar.

DOOMED PAIR PASSED CHECKS IN PITTSBURGH

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18.—After fleeing from Montreal where they murdered a taxicab driver last summer, George McDonald and his wife, Doris Palmer McDonald, now awaiting death on the gallows in the Canadian city, came here and passed worthless checks and counterfeited securities, secret service agents revealed today.

Government agents became aware of the counterfeiting activities when imitation government drafts were passed in New York. The McDonalds suddenly took leave from Pittsburgh, the woman's birthplace, and secret service men tracked them to Chicago where their trail vanished.

Shortly afterwards the couple was arrested in Butte, Mont., and returned to Montreal to answer for the capital crime.

Mrs. McDonald's father, Lee Snyder, has engaged counsel in Wheeling, W. Va., to try to save her from the gallows. He is expected to go to Montreal with his attorneys soon.

Sport Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

New Yorkers have just gotten back from going to the dogs. The Westminster Kennel club's annual hound exhibit has barked its way into Madison Square Garden.

There were enough wagtails on hand to make a flea faint for happiness. The dogs were lined up by their owners who ordered them to look valuable, but after spotting the spectators the hounds just looked bored.

THESE POOGES OF IMPORTANCE INCLUDED EVERY VARIETY OF BONE-GNAWER FROM HALF-PINT MEXICAN HAIRLESS TO GREAT DANES, WHOSE ONLY DIFFERENCE FROM HORSES IS THAT HORSES DON'T BARK.

One pup is said to be worth $10,000, but as it only took third place in its class a lot of the boys figured the $10,000 was just another Dempsey retirement story.

A FLOCK OF RIBBONS WERE PASSED OUT TO MANY OF THE ANKLE-SNAPPERS, BUT THERE WASN'T A CANINE IN THE CROWD THAT WOULDN'T HAVE TRADED ITS BEST MEDAL FOR A CHANCE TO CHASE A CAT UP A TELEPHONE POLE AND KEEP IT THERE.

At that the purps have it plenty soft to do, but lay around and laugh secretly at some of the goops that gaze goggle-eyed at them. A dog has a great sense of humor—otherwise he couldn't stand humans.

A lot of dogs have gone into the movies with more or less success. The trouble wit a dog star is that it can't get any publicity through a divorce.

The Epic Of Beecher's Island—XVII
The Siege Of Beecher's Island

HAVING FAILED IN THEIR ATTEMPTS TO RUSH "SANDY" FORSYTH'S POSITION ON BEECHER'S ISLAND IN THE ARICKAREE, THE CHEYENNE, WITH THEIR ALLIES, THE OGALLALA AND BRULE'S SIOUX, RESOLVED TO STARVE OUT THE INTREPID LITTLE BAND OF WHITE MEN. INDIAN SHARP-SHOOTERS POSTED THEMSELVES UNDER COVER, AND FIRED WHENEVER A TARGET WAS PRESENTED.

ON THE ISLAND, FORSYTH AND HIS MEN WERE IN DESPERATE STRAITS, BUT GRIMLY DETERMINED TO HOLD OUT UNTIL HELP COULD REACH THEM. OUT OF FIFTY SCOUTS ONLY TWENTY-EIGHT WERE LEFT FOR ACTIVE DUTY. THERE WERE NO RATIONS, BUT PLENTY OF GOOD WATER COULD BE REACHED BY DIGGING A FEW FEET DOWN.

THE SECOND NIGHT OF THE SIEGE FORSYTH, FEARING TRUDEAU AND STILLWELL HAD BEEN INTERCEPTED, SENT TWO MORE MESSENGERS FOR HELP. IN A SHORT WHILE, HOWEVER, THEY RETURNED WITH THE DISQUIETING NEWS THAT THE HOSTILES WERE ON THE ALERT, AND THAT IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO RUN THE GAUNTLET.

ON THE THIRD DAY, THOSE ON THE ISLAND SAW THE INDIAN SQUAWS AND CHILDREN BREAK CAMP AND MOVE AWAY. THIS SIGHT CHEERED THE DEFENDERS, AS THEY TOOK IT AS A SIGN THAT THE ENEMY WOULD SOON ABANDON THE SIEGE. THAT NIGHT TWO MORE SCOUTS SLIPPED AWAY TO TRY TO REACH FORT WALLACE.

Butler High Defeats New Castle 14 To 11

New Castle Now Tied With Butler For League Lead

New Castle High School Basketball Team Drops Close Battle On Butler Floor

Capacity Crowd Witnesses Schoolboy Classic; Dickson Proves Big Star

By "BUGS" WALTER

INABILITY on the part of New Castle High school basketball team to display offensive power caused their downfall on the Butler

High floor on Friday night. The final score was 14 to 11. By virtue of their victory Butler High moves in alongside of the New Castle team for the right to lead Section III of the W. P. I. A. L.

The battle enacted on the Butler High court had all the earmarks of a championship affair, with both teams putting forth the best that they had to snatch the important game. Both teams devoted their greatest attention to the defensive game.

Lacking in Field Goals

There were only six field goals scored in the game. Butler High accounted for four of these and New Castle had two. The real fight of the evening was waged from the foul line, and in this respect the Butler High team had the better of the argument, caging six out of nine tries, while New Castle fell down miserably, with but seven out of 17.

Both teams trained to the minute for the struggle that was to decide the fate of the Section III race, were nervous as they took their positions on the floor for the opening play. For the first several minutes the ball was passed erratically over the court with neither team able to make much headway. It looked for a time as if the teams would play a scoreless tie, but Arthur Sillman, the stellar New Castle guard, after more than three minutes of play sank the first basket and New Castle took the lead that was destined to be short-lived. Krankota sent the Butler hopes soaring in the next minute when he annexed a foul and followed it up with a field goal that wiped out the New Castle lead, and the Lawrence countians were forced to wage an uphill battle from this point till the finish, and they were just three points shy of the Butler aggregation when the final accounting took place.

New Castle Bewildered

As mentioned, the offensive strength of the New Castle team showed visible signs of weakening in the very first quarter. The locals heaved the spheroid at the basket any number of times, but without apparently looking in the direction of the hoops. Unable to fathom the "blockade" of the Butler team, and checked in their efforts to advance the ball beyond the center of the court on their offensive drive, the New Castle team resorted to flinging the ball from any position that they happened to be in.

The first quarter of the game ended with Butler on the long end of the count, 7 to 4. Sillman caged the only field goal for the locals and Reider and Alexander dropped foul points. Three field goals and a foul was the total for the Butlers.

The scoring in the second quarter was mighty slim, with Butler marking up three points via a field goal by Dickson and a foul against one point for the New Castle team, a foul at-

"BEEG, STRONG FELLERS"

BY FEG MURRAY

JOE STECHER PLAYED FIRST BASE FOR SALT LAKE AGAINST OAKLAND IN A PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE GAME IN 1921 HANDLING 9 CHANCES SUCCESSFULLY AND BATTING 1.000

JOES SCISSORS HOLD VS. STRANGLERS TERRIBLE HEAD LOCK

Wrestling has always been a sport among men ever since Adam's two boys, Cain and Abel grappled with each other on the greenward in the Garden of Eden. The first great wrestling champion, who, unless the writers of the day grossly exaggerated, could easily pull an arm off of Joe Stecher or Strangler Lewis, was Milo of Crotona, hero of six Olympic games. Milo was undefeated for 20 years or more, and according to the stories, trained by carrying around a young calf. As the calf grew up, the wrestler grew stronger, until finally Milo was actually packing a full-grown ox around on his back for exercise.

It's a far cry from Milo and his ox to Joe Stecher, "Strangler" Lewis and the "bull" that makes up most of the hallyhoo for a championship match today, but the fact remains that the two claimants of the heavyweight crown have been matched to meet next Monday, and if one wins a clean-cut decision, it will do a lot to put wrestling in a better light.

For years the game has been known as a spectacular but crooked "racket," and when two rival mat men have been touring the country for nearly three years, each advertising himself as "heavyweight champion of the world," it is bound to create a little doubt in the minds (if any) of the "great American people" who patronize the matches.

It seems that in January, 1925 the sports-loving public was mildly surprised to read that "Big" Munn, a former Nebraska football player, had defeated Heavyweight Champion "Strangler" Lewis in a wrestling match. The huge Nebraskan had picked Lewis up and thrown him out of the ring, and was awarded the title when Lewis refused to continue. The "Strangler" was badly hurt and claimed a foul and never gave up the

Carr and Check Star In One-Sided 44 To 11 Victory

Using a total of 13 men in the game, the strong Union team practically had its own way with Wampum Friday evening at Wampum, when they won by a score of 44 to 11.

Wampum played well and hard, but Union, with many substitutions, soon tired the lighter and faster team. In all, 13 men were used by Union.

Carr and Check were the leading scorers for their team. Union did most of the scoring in the second half, while in the last chapter of the game, Wampum scored only three fouls.

10,000 diamond-studded championship belt. Munn, acclaimed everywhere as the new title-holder, soon lost his crown to "Grandpa" Stan Zbyszko, who was well over 50 years old at the time. Stecher then beat "Zibby" on the day that Lewis was getting revenge on Munn, but how that gave the "Strangler" the title back is beyond me. Lewis beat Stecher for the crown eight years ago.

ALLEGHENY TO PLAY TONIGHT AT WESTMINSTER

Good Contest Is Certain At New Wilmington Gym; Two Games Next Week

Special To The News

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa. Feb. 18.—Coach Dick Baker's Allegheny College five will furnish the opposition for Coach Lawther's Titans on the home floor tonight in what promises to be a much faster game than fans anticipated last month when the Methodists were swamped at Meadville by a 44-11 score. The victory over Wash-Jeff and the fine showing against Pitt made by Allegheny tossers makes them feared in tonight's contest.

According to all signs, Lawther will start the same five men which have been started in the last three games: Captain Lewis, Ayers, Connor, O'Donovan, and Delahunty. Next week the United Presbyterians will face St. Francis on the home floor on Wednesday evening, and on Saturday will be hosts to the Waynesburg College quintet. If the Waynesburg Yellowjackets are again defeated, Westminster will need but one game to clinch the tri-state conference championship.

Hudkins Wins From Baker In Easy Fashion

Nebraska Welterweight Advances Toward Championship In Easy Battle

BY DAVID J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service
NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Nothing stood between Ace Hudkins and the world's welterweight championship today except the closing of a title bout, which seems to be a formality, and the determined visage of Joe Dundee. The story the day before yesterday was that the stand-between elements included the title chance, Joe Dundee and Sergeant Sammy Baker, named in the order of their importance. The story last night was that Hudkins gave the Sergeant the beating of his young life for ten gory rounds. The story this morning is that Dundee must show cause why Hudkins is not to be the champion of his division.

They will probably meet over the championship distance of 15 rounds at the Yankee Stadium before all the June brides are married.
Baker was the only serious contender to Hudkins' progress toward the title chance and the Sergeant, deposited twice upon the floor for counts of nine and cut up about the face like a tenderloin, no longer can claim that distinction. The writer could allow him only two of the ten rounds and only in the fifth, when he twice belabored the Ace with hard right hand crosses, could he be said to have scored effectively. Hudkins, on the other hand and, in fact, both of them, carried a lot of change, clearly and the other three were even.
It was the third of the slaughter house series between the pair and this time it was Baker whose gore was spilled all over the premises. The first meeting saw Hudkins bleed so profusely that a tender-hearted referee stopped the show. The next time out, both pulled a lot of change over the scene with Hudkins winning. Happily and for the sake of fastidious butchers in the crowd, last night's activities just about closed the ledgers.

NEW CASTLE NOW TIED WITH BUTLER FOR LEAGUE LEAD

tempt by Sillman. The game in the second period developed into a "do or die" struggle, with Butler seemingly content to maintain their lead of several points and resting on their strong defense to save the day. The tally at the end of the first half found Butler in the lead, 10 to 5. It was certain that the New Castle team would have to show a better scoring system in the second half if they were to overtake the Bernholz cohorts.
Three Fouls Apiece
Facing the realization that they must now go out and snatch a victory rather than defend themselves, the New Castle boys did show something in the way of basketball, and held the Butler team to three fouls in the third quarter, but the New Castle scoring system was badly crippled by their defensive actions, and consequently New Castle tallied but three fouls and drew up 13 to 8 in arrears at the close of the third stanza.
The only real basketball of the evening was shown in the fourth and final period. Alexander caged a foul point that gave the locals hopes and Reidler several minutes later dropped his only field goal of the battle from near the center of the floor, and New Castle began to creep up on the Butler team, with the "Soapminers" only two points away. The battle in the last five minutes waxed hot and heavy, with the Butler team relying on their defense to win the game, and New Castle throwing all caution to the winds and bombarding the hoop with shot after shot from the center of the floor without effect.
Butler Shows Strength
With only a minute and a half of the game remaining, Dickson strode to the foul line and caged a one-point shot that gave the Butler boys a three-point lead and the game was destined to end with the locals trailing three points. If ever a team realized too late that victory was slipping from them, New Castle did last night, and in the last few seconds of play Coach Bridenbaugh sent in two of his substitutes in the effort to at least deadlock the count, but the Butler team was not to be denied the victory that they had been preparing for since their downfall at the Senior High floor here several weeks ago.

Not that alibis are good form, but New Castle High basketball team did not play the brand of basketball last night that they are capable of, and now they must win the next two games on the sectional schedule to deadlock Butler, in event the Butler countians win their games from New Brighton and Zellenople.
The W. P. I. A. L. champions of 1927 now find themselves face to face with a team that equals them in every respect, and if the locals expect to repeat at Pittsburgh this season they must "find" themselves.

New Wilmington Defeats Volant

Collegians Win Over Team
From New Castle In Preliminary Game

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 18.—Starting a substitute team and gradually filling in with regulars the New Wilmington high school basketball combine defeated the Volant high passers 38-21 in a fast interesting game here last night. At times in the game the Volant five played on even terms with the college team outfit, but were outclassed in both shooting ability and floor work.

The score at the end of the half was 18-11 in favor of the local team. Black and Miller starred for Volant while the play of the college team was singularly free from individual playing. Newton was high point scorer with eight baskets and one foul to his credit.

In the preliminary game the H. B. C. team of New Castle lost to the New Wilmington Collegians by a 25-14 count. This game was marred by rough playing on the part of both combinations. Uhle starred for the New Castle quintet and Rohrbach and Hutchison were the shining lights of the Collegian team.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED. FRITZ

IT so many years ago when it was our custom to frolic with gentlemen of pugnaclous nature, the word of Eddie Weygant, a disciple of Punch, was never suspected, let alone questioned, but in these days of ringside piquancy, the utterance which once was synonymous of abatement, if his latest discourse is to be considered.

EDDIE TALKS
It is now our painful duty to suspect that Mr. Weygant is given to blandishment. This is written under the protection of Typewriter Rules that fully state that "no fighter or fighter is permitted to suddenly become right hand silly and direct punches at sport editors, because their fingers are always tired."
In some days we can see Eddie's point of view. Let us state that Eddie abated concerning Elmo the Mighty who was and Shoenstr Elmo who is and his fight at McKeesport. Someone must save Elmo as a drawing card and we're willing to help.
You see Elmo the Mighty, 36 years young, with a cunning that is only garnered through years of rough work, kicks and strangulations not barred, joined the Professional Fighters union, strolled to the Neshaanock avenue abattoir and surprised the fans by beating a guy named Small Neck. His reputation made, he dared the fates by tackling Joe White, the boy with the smokestack neck.

TWO HUMAN CORKS
It was some fight. Like two corks they bobbed up and down and finally Elmo the Mighty rubbed his heavy beard against Smokestack Joe's jaw, weakened the flesh and the next ponderous punch stretched him like a yard of linoleum. "Made!" shouted Weygant. "You now belong to me." In successive fights he turned over Jack Fink, the Sphinx, and burst the dark bay window of Ernie Brown, the Colah'd Wiz.

Someone offered Elmo the Mighty a chance with Al Skillo at McKeesport. Elmo had the idea that Skillo was just a Skillo; and he may have been this but when he arrived to fight he found Jack Wells, the 11 Straight Knockout Boy sitting in the corner. "Toss him in, we'll soon be going home," shouted Weygant and away went the bell and the fight was on. Listen again, folks, forbear while we repeat to you what one Weygant told us:
"Yes, Elmo lost, but pshaw, he wasn't hurt and it was a shoestring that decided the fight. In other words, this boys Wells won by a shoestring and all because a referee didn't see a string."
"In the second round of a fracas between Elmo the Mighty and the Boy with Knockouts, Elmo's shoestring became untied and you know Elmo is of the nervous, worrying type.
"He just couldn't fight with that shoestring untied, so what did he do? I'll tell you, that boy used his cunning, retreated slowly and covered like a turtle in a corner."
STRING IS LOOSE
"Elmo shoved the shoe with the string untied out, he the ropes and yelled for someone to tie the shoe string. Meanwhile the Boy with Knockouts continued to punch Elmo, mean and heavy.
"Finally the referee, not knowing Elmo's shoestring, stepped in and gave the fight to Wells. Elmo, to show he wasn't hurt, covered over the ropes and we were soon on our way home."
Eddie had something to say about next Monday night, too. He said that Shoenstr Elmo, who has lost his title as Elmo the Mighty because he lost by a shoestring, is to fight the Polish Wonder.
Weygant wants the people to know that the Polish Wonder isn't a Pilsudski or a Paderewski though he does admit the boy has strategy and can punch as fast as Pad' can tickle a piano.
"If Elmo loses I'm going to make him shave off his beard entirely," said Weygant today. "There's a jim somewhere and I'd my good nature as lose Elmo as a drawing card."
So, folks, when you go to the Armory abattoir (so-called because so many reputations are slaughtered there) you'll see your Favorite Shoestring in action against that demon of punch, the Polish Wonder!
But these aren't the only pair. Mickie Dugan the Irishman and U. S. Carpenter, a gay guy with a French name, will clash in the feature battle of six rounds.
There'll be effervescent action in the feature and the gentleman who attends such social functions will not have an opportunity to boo or rant "Trow 'em out!"

RIO TO BATTLE
Frankie Rio, a featherweight with an editorial left, because it always hits the point, will oppose Johnny Pollock, Youngstown, who has a reputation for making things nasty for a ring opponent.
Tony Icon, like the Bat Nelson of yore, doesn't know how to back up, will fight Roy Minter, who claims he is a progressive in the ranks of the Pugs because he keeps stepping ahead.

Three Fast Games In Church League On Friday Night

Temple Israel, Central Christians
And First Christians Take Victories

Three fast games were played in the New Castle Church League at the Y. M. C. A. floor on Friday night.

The Temple Israel team in the first game of the program handed the First Methodists a neat lacing 38 to 13. The Temple team was in the lead the entire way. At the end of the first half the tally was 20 to 6. McLaughlin and McVior upheld the scoring for the Methodists, with H. Levine and E. Solomon the best bets for the winners.

In the second game the Central Christians had an easy time in downing the First Baptists 40 to 16. At the end of the first half the Christians were in the lead 21 to 4. The Baptists showed to better advantage in the second half, but the lead piled up against them in the first half had a telling effect. E. Bauman and Smith were the high scorers.

The First Christians defeated the Mahoning M. E. boys 29 to 13 in the final game of the evening. The teams were deadlocked at 8-8 at the end of the first half. The First Christians outscored their opponents twenty one to five in the second half of the battle. Sargent, Alexander and Lackey led the attack for the winners.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.
The first world's heavyweight championship fight under the modern rules, with gloves, was that memorable battle between John L. Sullivan, last champion of the bare knuckle days, and James J. Corbett, first champ of what might be called the modern era.

That fight occurred 31 years ago. Incidents in the battles that followed that one, and other happenings in Corbett's varied career after quitting the ring, have been crowded out of his memory long since, but Corbett, himself, marvels at how every minute detail of that fight clings to him.

"For one thing," says Corbett, in recalling the battle, "our side agreed before the fight that no matter what opportunities came, I was to be content to spar with him at long range—tap and get away from his terrific rushes—for the first 10 rounds.
"I knew that the Sullivan I faced that day was not the Sullivan that I had seen the first time. My first glimpse of him came when he was around 26, and in perfect condition. I had all due respect for his greatness, however. I don't believe people realized then that Sullivan, for all his bulk and his reputation as a slugger, was fast on his feet, quick as a cat in moving about the ring, and knew how to box.
"Sullivan started his rushes in the first round. He felt confident that he could reach me. But in those rushes I saw two or three openings that would have been enough for me but for my promise to stay away from him.
"At the end of the round, however, I said to my seconds: 'I can go out there the next round and slug that fellow.'
"The folks in the corner went into a panic when I made it clear that I was going through with the plan of battle. I was just confident that I could outslug him."
One other fight stands out almost as clearly in Corbett's mind, however. That was his memorable battle with Bob Fitzsimmons. He gets a big kick out of it when someone brings up "Curly Bob's" name.
"What did you say the gentleman's name was?" he asks, innocently.
And incidentally Corbett unwittingly gave Fitzsimmons the opportunity to bring himself into the limelight—a spotlight that was to lead him into the ring to triumph over Corbett, himself.

U. S. Position At Conference Stands Firmer

International Law Commission Ends Deliberations Without Hitch

INTERVENTION IS PLACED ON TABLE

(International News Service)
HAVANA, Feb. 18.—With the deliberations of the commission on international law over, the position of the United States at the sixth Pan-American conference today stood firmer than ever.

The final meeting of the most important commission at the conference ended with a Pan-American pledge of peace and condemnation of war and a Pan-American confession of inability to devise a universally acceptable declaration on the issue of intervention.

The two decisions were remarked by most observers as a refutation of some prophecies that the conference would result in a combination of Latin-America against the United States.

In the case of intervention, the issue was postponed until the next Pan-American conference, tentatively scheduled to meet at Montevideo. The decision came after a report from the sub-committee handling the matter that it was "impossible to reach an agreement."

The other decision came in a resolution by which the 21 republics of the Americas unanimously agreed to adopt "obligatory arbitration for the pacific solution of their international differences of a judicial nature."

The question was referred to a conference to be held in Washington and to be called within a year.

On Physiognomy

FOUR WELL KNOWN CITIZENS, ALL PROMINENT LOCALLY

Prof. Roy Hawk, physiognomist, room 8, New Palace hotel, is here for a limited stay, an' offers his services to all who wish to know what walk in life is best suited to their talents, what their cut out fer, an' would excel at. Many who'er already established in life, many who'er thinkin' o' makin' a change, an' others who'er jest founderin' around, are availin' 'em-selves o' th' opportunity to consult th' Professor, an' he reports a very busy week. Jest to show how people kin get off on th' wrong foot we herewith present th' portraits an' readin's o' four well known citizens.

No. 1. Tilford Moots, retired farmer. Note th' low an' somewhat bulgin' forehead, flopper like ears, an' sparse chin whiskers. Mr. Moots wuz a farmer fer forty-five years without knowin' he would excel as an oil inspector, or big game hunter. He would have been a success as th' operator of a shootin' gallery, or a janitor of a court-house. He drifted into agriculture an' wasted almost a half century of his life.

No. 2. Miss Mame Moon. Note th' wide open space between th' septum o' th' nose an' th' bottom o' th' chin. Note th' low Moorish forehead an' liberal neck, thin lips, an' wealth o' coarse, black hair. This subject has spent th' greater part of her life operatin' a lively stable, an' now in her declinin' years her whole time is taken up tryin' to git somebuddy to buy it an' convert it into an apartment buildin'. Th' septum of her nose is not discernible in th' accompanying picture, but it's fully developed an' vigorous. Th' subject has not buried four husbands as th' reader might suspect. Matrimony has never occurred to her. She started out in life utterly ignorant of her talents. She would have been invaluable to science in diggin' up prehistoric animals, an' peculiarly successful in leadin' expeditions into Tibet an' th' real mountains, but it's too late now.

No. 3. Constable Newt Plum. From what we're able to see an' feel o' this gentleman's features he would have made a ploddin' an' uncomplaining prospector, or a wealthy hog farmer. He chose public office at a fixed remuneration. He knew 35 years ago what he would be makin' 'day. But he didn't git his head examined, an' so he drifted.

No. 4. Hiram Meadows. Note th' long thin parchment nose on this subject. This subject is open an' above board. There's nothin' deceptive about him or he'd raise a full beard. He might have been a high an' commandin' figure in any honorable walk in life, but how wuz he to know it without gittin' his head examined. He is a fruit tree agent, an' might be said to live comfortable, although he has no phone or bathroom.

Health Of City Much Improved

Only 150 Cases Of Contagion Reported Here In Entire Year

MUNY HOSPITAL UNOCCUPIED IN 1927

New Castle enjoyed a healthy 1927 and a year unexcelled previously, according to Dr. William Steen, city health officer, who has reported to council that only 150 cases of contagion were reported to him during the year just ended.

The contagious cases listed follow: Chickenpox 33, scarlet fever 21; tuberculosis 20; diphtheria 16, whooping cough 15; measles 13; pneumonia 13; mumps 9; typhoid fever 8; erysipelas 1 and infantile paralysis 1. According to Dr. Steen there are approximately 50 physicians in the city which made an average of approximately three cases for each physician.

Diphtheria Campaign Success
Steen reported that the campaign which has run three years to immunize children against diphtheria is reflected in only 16 cases for 12 months.

The municipal hospital was not occupied during the year and in commenting on contagion, Dr. Steen says: "I am pleased to report that no cases of smallpox have been reported for three years."

Few complaints were received concerning the city water supply which is examined daily in the health department and the water has been kept free from disease producing bacteria.

Seven wells and two springs which were found unsafe were closed. Samples of water from wells and springs are examined often. Cascade Park springs were found free of contamination.

Disposal Plant Operates Well
According to the doctor, engineers report to him that there will be no more odor from the sewage disposal plant. He says this was caused by failure of digestion tanks to operate properly.

"The plant which cost New Castle $328,000 is one of a chain of disposal plants," says Steen, "which provide the entire valley with an unpolluted water supply."

Further, the health official says that the plant is a public health measure which has become an absolute necessity.

The milk supply here ranks high among third class cities and all sold here is either pasteurized or produced from tuberculin cows. The highest grade of certified milk produced under the commission of the Lawrence County Medical society is now available.

This milk comes from the dairy of Dr. Frederick Taylor, Pulaski, and took third highest honors at the Dairyman's convention, at Harrisburg, in November.

He reports there are 10 pasteurizing plants and he advocates the passage of an ordinance requiring all milk to be bottled to protect it from dust, flies and infection by persons handling it.

Dr. Steen recommends that dairy and milk inspection be extended to include country farms and that a city inspector should do the work.

Dr. Steen reports that he conducted bacteriological examinations of milk, water, throat cultures in addition to vaccinations, issuance of health certificates.

The sanitary police made 9,994 inspections and investigated 194 alleged nuisances while food, meat and other inspections were made by sanitary policemen acting as food inspectors.

Very few complaints relative to the collection of garbage were made and 91-8 1/2 tons of coal were consumed in burning the garbage, 9,750 cans having been gathered each week.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Most of this column today concerns cans, tin cans, those metal overcoats they make for milk down at the American Can works. Had to do a little roaming round there yesterday around noon and a search for E. H. Kannenberg, the general manager revealed him in the cafeteria, wrapping himself around a man sized lunch.

I had to see Mr. Kannenberg and I had to eat lunch and the gentleman solved both by inviting me to sit in. Now there was a time when industrial cafeterias were agents for Old Man Dyspepsia, but not any more.

Creamed codfish on toast, stewed corn, coconut custard pie—and it was pie—and coffee. Now the cod fish is an ordinary sort of a fish out where its home is, but what that Can Works cook did to that particular cod was a picture. And that pie was the kind that just reaches round to your ears when you take a bite, and smooches itself all over your face in a blanket of custardy goodness. I think the can works will stand another story some of these days and it's going to be handy noon when I get it.

The Can Works is not a new place to me. Years ago when the industry started here, every youngster on the east and south side decided that he was Heaven's gift to the can maker and got himself a job down there. They put me on what is known as a floater, where the ends of the cans are soldered and the foreman was a chap by the name of Bill Poplar. Now Bill was a good enough sort of chap, but he believed that work was the salvation of the world and that he was a chosen evangelist. Ergo, I put in 10 1/2 hours every day listening to the roar of tin cans, and seeing that they didn't take too much solder.

Some of those youngsters who started down there in those days are still there. Not youngsters any more, and not doing the sort of work they did. Al Ellis is the Factory Clerk now in charge of the clerical end of the plant. Karl Norris is called the Efficiency Man but his work is really that of Assistant Manager. Bill Schoenfeld is the new night superintendent, and Lloyd Thompson is the Shipping Clerk. All of them, I believe, started about the time the plant started.

Some more of the old timers are still down there. Jerry Smith was plant superintendent then and he still is. Ira Campbell was in the machine shop and he's back there now. Mac McDonald is still around and Bill Morris and a number of others. The can works has been a steady running plant and these fellows are the kind of steady workers who know a good thing when they see it.

Things have changed considerably in the old days they had one header for each line. Now with the new style body maker and the speeded equipment they have two headers pouring out the tops and bottoms for cans. In the old days 88,000 cans was a record for 10 1/2 hours; now they will turn out 150,000 in that time.

In the old days it was not unusual for someone to stick a thumb under a gang press and the press not knowing the difference, to pop it off. Now the gang presses are automatic and one girl can handle four of them with no danger at all. An accident down there now is a rare thing, so rare that most of the fellows don't remember when the last one was.

And the testers. They used to be water testers where one girl sat at a tub like affair looking for bubbles on the top of the water denoting a bad can. Now they have air testers which automatically throw out cans with any air leaks in them.

But the feature of the whole plant, at least from a gustatorial standpoint is the cafeteria. Food that tempts you to yourself into a double chin, clean as your home, served daintily in an atmosphere that sends more like a hotel dining room. And it's better tasted than a good many hotels.

Hickman-Hunt Trial Adjourns Until Monday

Jury Still Incomplete As Trial Judge Adjourns Court Till Monday

PREJUDICE CAUSES JURORS' DISMISSAL

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—The joint trial of William Edward Hickman and Welby Hunt, his former partner in crime for slaying of C. Ivy Thomas, marked time today with a jury still incomplete.

After defense attorneys had exercised 21 of their allotted 30 peremptory challenges and state's attorneys had used five of their 20, five women and seven men sat as tentative jurors when Superior Judge Elliott Craig yesterday adjourned court until Monday morning.

The chief obstacle to the selection of a jury to sit in judgment on the youthful pair, it was pointed out today, is the widespread prejudice against Hickman because of his conviction for the kidnaping and killing of 12-year-old Marion Parker.

While a lull hung over the court proceedings, investigators from the district attorney's office were searching for persons responsible for the reported distribution of photographs of the Parker girl's mutilated body.

District Attorney Asa Keyes instructed his agents to arrest any person under suspicion of having sold or exhibited the pictures.

Weekly Letter

Monday, Feb. 20, 1928.
12:15-1:30 p. m., The Castleton.
Fellow Rotarian:—
At one time in the history of the world, a dinosaur was a powerful animal. But he is no longer of any account.
A president of a Rotary club is a wonderful being until he becomes a past president. Then he becomes as useful as a dinosaur and should be placed in the Smithsonian Institute along with that one-time fearful animal, according to democratic advice.
In the words of an extinct Rotary president, we leave much unsaid.
Because of the bouquet handed Frank Burton by the speaker for the past presidents committee, Frank has turned over our meeting to them. We assure you that the sole responsibility for this action rests on this man who cannot resist flattery.

Show your martyr spirit to the cause of Rotary by attending this meeting and thus carry on the splendid attendance record we have had this month.

As you should know, attendance records are made up from the tickets. If you do not sign your ticket you are not counted. We leave much unsaid. CARL E. PAISLEY, Secretary.
